Chapter 1 by Worlds

I walked down the street and took a turn into a dark alleyway. It is the shortcut I always use to get home after school. I held on to the chains on the fence and heaved myself up. I looked at the view I could see from up here. It was a magnificent view. I pulled my coat a little closer to my chest to keep out the cold wind. I jumped over the fence and started to walk down the alleyway. I took another turn, just one more turn and I would be home. I took another turn to find a dead end. I was pretty sure that this was the right way. I looked around a little confused. I looked a little closer in this dead end and I found a girl huddled in the corner with her hands over a small fire. She had long black hair and calm blue eyes and she looked about my age. She was wearing a white hat and a white scarf around her neck, ninja style. She was beautiful.

"Excuse me, where am I?" I asked the girl.

She immediately turned around and looked around until she found me.

"Please leave me alone," she said with a quiet voice.

"I...I...need to find the way back to my house." I shuddered.

Her voice was melodious, I couldn't help it.

"I will ask this once more time, please leave me alone," she answered.

"I know this was not my fault, but I have to leave."

She turned at me and said,

I started feeling a pang of weirdness followed by an agonizing sensation in my head. I put my hands on top of my head and started screaming. I went down on my knees and crouched over. The pain was so horrifying that I couldn't help it.

Then, a guy came out of the back door of the butcher shop.

"Are you ok, dude?" the guy asked me with a worried face, "Do you want me to call 911?"

He was also about my age, had blonde hair, and warm brown eyes.

I found out that the pain was gone and so was the girl.

"No about 911, and yeah, I think that I am ok," I said with a fake smile.

"What's your name?" he asked me.

"William," I said with a groan trying to sit up.

"Well William, I got to go back to work," he said running back to the door of the butcher shop.

"What's your name?" I shouted to him.

"It's Matthew." he said with a smile and then he closed the door behind him.

I went back down on my back.

"Who was that girl?" I asked myself out loud.

Chapter 2 by Worlds

After an hour, I finally got back up and started cradling my head. Man, my head hurts like crazy. I was thinking that I could stay a little longer. But, I went against it and stood up. For a minute I just stood there waiting for something to happen, but nothing, so I started walking back home.

After 12 random turns, I finally got home. When I went through the door, no one was there to greet me as usual. I locked the door behind me and ran up the stairs to my room to find our family's cat scratching my pillow. (Look at where I said OUR FAMILY'S CAT, not mine but OUR FAMILY'S)

"Tabby, you!" I shouted at that evil cat.

She showed no reaction besides rolling her eyes at me and left my room. I jumped on my bed and thought about that girl over and over again. She was pretty and all, but she tried to kill me! But, maybe I should let this g... No! I got it, the perfect revenge plan.

I was going to catch that bitch with the guy from the butcher shop. He looks like the type of man I can trust and establish my plan with.

As the world I started to think about the girl from the butcher shop and how someone with her. It was the guy at the butcher shop and they were talking together!

As I gazed at them for a second, I realized the girl didn't look as depressed or bitter anymore. She was actually smiling. The butcher boy (as I like to call him) was cracking jokes with the girl very casually, as if they have known each other for a long time and as if they were used to having a normal conversation. That's when I stopped staring at them like a dope and took an action.

Chapter 4 by Worlds

"What are you doing here!?!?" I shouted at Butcher boy.

They both stood up and looked at me with surprise. Man, I wish my brain would work faster than my mouth.

The girl looked at me with her icy eyes. I knew what was going to happen next, I braced myself.

"No, Alec!" Butcher boy said getting between us, "Don't!"

Alec? So, that was her name was. We all just stood there in silence. Butcher boy was watching the witch, the witch was looking at me, and I staring at Butcher boy in shock. I noticed that he now had white hair.

"What have you done to Butcher boy, you witch?" I said stepping up.

The witch snickered, "Butcher boy?"

"Don't you dare think that's my new nickname." Butcher boy said.

"Too late." she said teasing him.

They were actually flirting with each other!

Then, I made a huge mistake. I made eye contact with the witch and she took over my mind with agony and I blacked out.
